

Experienced and robust project management support, taking a hands-on approach help you “get things done”.

Unlock the full potential of your organisation’s investment in new technology and systems with Adapta’s specialist fractional project management services.

We understand that charities have limited resources and often have to operate within tight budgets. That's why our fractional project management services provide a cost-effective solution that allows you to access the expertise and support you need, when you need it. Our flexible and customisable approach ensures that our experienced consultants can work alongside your team, providing the support you need, when you need it.

Our seasoned specialists all have extensive experience in the not-for-profit sector and understand the complexities of delivering successful digital, data and technology projects. They are recognised, experienced experts within their field and have many years’ project management experience at all levels, having delivered numerous mission-critical IT projects and organisational change programmes.

Our fractional project management services cover all aspects of project management, supplemented with strategic guidance/leadership and practical, hands-on input to tasks as and where appropriate. We work closely with you to understand your organisation's goals and objectives, and then help you to design and implement a project plan that aligns with them.

Our team will help you to identify potential risks and develop mitigation strategies, ensuring that your project stays on track and on budget.

We provide regular progress updates and help to resolve any issues that arise. Our team of experts is committed to staying up-to-date with the latest developments has experience in everything from trends in the very latest approaches to digital engagement and agile project delivery, through to information security and infrastructure, which allows us to draw on deep expertise as needed and to provide you with the best possible support along the way.

In terms of culture and what it ‘feels’ like to work with Adapta on a systems or technology project, we recognise that every organisation we work with is different, and every combination of managers, staff, suppliers, software, business processes and priorities is unique. Most technology projects are ultimately “Adapta were pivotal to the successful implementation of some mission critical change projects in the teeth of the pandemic. Adapta brought us expertise and capacity that we lacked and supported us through all phases including specification; design; tendering and implementation. And they were nice people to deal with – professional and respectful of our values and way of working.”

Stephen Hammersley, Chief Executive at Pilgrims Friend Society

"I would not embark on any IT project without first meeting with Adapta to understand how they feel they could support me. Over the past 5 years Adapta have worked with NCB as we've selected an IT support partner (moving all IT infrastructure to the Cloud), replaced our Finance system and most recently as we selected a new HR and payroll system. I have found their guidance, industry knowledge and practical support invaluable and moreover enjoyed our working partnerships. I know my management team feel the same."

Rachel Rand – Director of Finance & Corporate Services, National Children's Bureau

organisational change projects; the desired benefits from an investment in technology are only realised when they enhance your organisation's ways of working, efficiency, and ultimately its effectiveness. We therefore go to great lengths to understand the particular values and culture of your organisation, ensuring that the change is done "with" the organisation, rather than "to" it.

We also recognise that different organisations may have particular preferences in terms of project management approach, and so we're entirely happy working with a range of methodologies such as Waterfall, Scrum, Prince2 and Agile.

Once the project is delivered, our support doesn't end there. We're often asked to help with ongoing/continuous improvement activities and providing ongoing support to ensure that the technology continues to be used to its full potential. Additionally, a post-implementation review can be beneficial - concentrating on assessing the extent to which the benefits expected from any new system (and associated process improvements) have been achieved. Where results may have fallen short of the desired goal, we will help determine the reasons for this and put in place a plan of action to address them.

Whether you're looking to improve your operations, increase your impact, or just land a project safely – we can help you reach your full potential.

Adapta's consultants have helped many organisations with managing complex projects and implementing new systems, including:

About Adapta Consulting

At Adapta Consulting, we help you meet the challenges of change: processes, people and technology. We work exclusively with not-for-profit organisations, where our consultants bring a combination of deep systems knowledge and wide experience, gained over many years working at senior levels in the sector. We are completely independent and, in all our work, we set the highest professional standards to ensure we provide an objective service, adapted to your needs.

Contact us:

020 4558 8070

hello@adaptaconsulting.co.uk

